WAY OF LIFE

HERO'S JOURNAL: LANGUAGES OF THE DREAD SEA DOMINIONS

The common language spoken almost everywhere is Imperial Synchronian. Almost all lands have a national language and dozens of dialects, but very few are recorded.

Alchemists craft most of their medicines. So, only in the northern regions do they speak the language of the barbarians. These barbarians speak the language of the Ivory Savannah. The terms of parts of the Caldean slavers. Imperial rather than characters.

CLIMATE

The Dread Sea Dominions have not been charted in an exact way (today the maps are practiced only by some scholar of the Synchronian Library), so it is difficult to understand them. They certainly have a very wide range of different climates.

The northern reigns including the Caldeans, Northern and the Cairlands are as long as six months and wide expanses of forests. The Troll Mountains, usual boundaries of the world, are in the grip of ice for most of the year.

On the other hand, the lands facing the Dread Sea enjoy by far the best climate. Kyros have a temperate, Mediterranean climate with warm winters, long and generally hot summers. They have plants of all species including olive and fig which is always generous.

Tricornia differs slightly from its neighbors. Despite being in the north, it is protected by the Brokenchain Mountains, so it has a temperate climate but it is quite different. Going south, the climate gets hotter. The area called the Horn, comprising the Dunes Desert and the Ivory Savannah is scorching all year round, and the highest mountains reached in the desert. With the exception of oases, the vegetation mainly includes yellow cacti and other resilient plants. In the Ivory Savannah the main vegetable is the Bone Grass, a sturdy type of herb that in the summer takes on a pale color resembling that of bones.

Thanks to its position around the mouth of the Buffalo River, Caldeia enjoys a mild climate and its vegetation is similar to that of Kyros and Faberterra.

Going further south, the Lush Jungle and the Carnival Islands have a tropical climate. Plants of every type and size grow in these snake-infested lands.

Moving east, Lohban is an area of high mountains; it is quite cold with short, hot summers. Except for some lichens, very few plants grow in these lands but the valley bottoms are fertile, enjoy a mild weather, and yield excellent crops.

The old kingdom of Zandor, comprising Ekul, Jalzar and Valkheim, has the most varied climate. Ekul is a cold, windswept desert with small oases. Here nothing stops the winds blowing from the Valk steppes. The only exception consists in the coastal regions, which are very fertile. Jalzar has a continental climate which gets milder and good for the agriculture on the shores of the Drowned King Sea.
